LONDON PERFUMERY.—The following articles are well known:—

ATKINSON'S OLD BROWN WINDSOR SOAP, made by a new process, is equal, if not superior, to the most fashionable soap, sold at double the price.

ATKINSON'S ALMOND SOAP, made from the purest Almond Oil, the mildest Soap, most fragrant in its perfume, and greatest benefactor to the skin hitherto known.

ATKINSON'S OIL OF ROSE, CAMPHOR, and other scented oils, and is equally mild as the Almond, only differing from it in perfume and color, the latter being a light brown, and the perfume a combination of those most generally approved.

ATKINSON'S BEARS' GREASE, warranted genuine as imported. This article, consisting of its well known regenerating properties, is a very elegant substitute for Oils, Pomades, and Extracts, for dressing the hair.

CHEAM OF ALMONDS. For allaying all smarting pain, which the skin is subject to from the change of heat and cold, or any other cause, and is much preferable to Cold Cream.

ATKINSON'S VEGETABLE DYE, for changing grey or red hair on the head or whiskers, to a permanent brown or black.

CAUTION.—Every article in perfumery of James Atkinson's manufactory, has his name and address distinct on the label, and also a small address stamp, printed in colors, similar to a patent medicine stamp.

ALLA AD DEEN MAHOMED'S DYE, for changing the hair on the head, eyebrows, or whiskers, to a permanent brown or black, by one application, without staining the skin or the finest linen.

A fresh supply of the above just received by J. & E. Atkinson's Agent, at the Music Saloon, and London Importing Warehouse, No 34 and 36 Cornhill, late Market street.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE IN MEDFORD.

AN ACT, in addition to an Act relating to certain Courts in the County of Middlesex.

Be it enacted &c. as follows:

Sec. 1. The act to which this act is in addition which act is hereby revived, shall be void of no effect, unless the city of Lowell, on or before the first day of April next, shall pay to the county commissioners, for the time being of the county of Middlesex, the sum of ten thousand dollars, to be applied and expended by them towards the erection of a jail in said Lowell, with suitable appendances, for the safe keeping of prisoners, and shall also, on or before said day, finish the court room, and other accommodations now begun at said Lowell, and in part finished, for the use of the courts named in said act, according to the plan and style in which the same are now begun;—and shall also on or before said day, by a good and sufficient lease or other conveyance, duly executed and delivered to said county commissioners, secure and confirm said court room and other accommodations to the county of Middlesex, to be permanently used for the purposes of said act.

Sec. 2. In case the city of Lowell shall fulfil the foregoing conditions, the term of the Supreme Judicial Court, now by law to be holden at Concord, within and for said county, on the second Tuesday of April annually, shall, on the second Tuesday of April, in the year eighteen hundred thirty-seven, and annually thereafter be holden at said Lowell;—and the term of the Court of Common Pleas, now by law to be holden at Concord, within and for said county, shall on the second Monday of September next and annually thereafter, be holden at said Lowell. And the sheriff of said county shall give seasonable and proper notice thereof in all the newspapers published in said county.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners for the time being of said county, to receive the aforesaid payment,—and thereupon to proceed and purchase a lot of land in said Lowell, and to erect a jail on the same, with all necessary appendances and conveniences for the safe keeping of prisoners. And if the aforesaid sum shall be insufficient to defray the expense of said land and jail, the residue of said expense shall be defrayed by the county of Middlesex.

Sec. 4. All parts of the act to which this act is in addition, which are inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

Approved by the Governor March 24, 1837.

ON SPRING.

"The splendid raiment of the Spring peeps forth,
Her universal green."

Far to the North stem Winter now retires,
And cheerful Spring assumes her gentle reign:
Hail! gracious season, that my heart inspires!
At thy approach fair Nature smiles again.

Now joy the fields, by Flora's beauties crown'd;
Now with shrill notes the shepherd greets the morn,
The whitening wither spreads its odours round,
On the light pinions of the Zephyrus borne.

Now blithesome cattle speak the verdant plains;
The cuckoo, too, her annual visit pays;
The feather'd minstrel hymning forth their strains,
To Nature's God their grateful voices raise:
And shall not I, whom greater blessings bless,
In bolder strains a nobler theme address!

FASHIONABLE AMERICANS IN PARIS.

Some of our Americans abroad have gone there with fortunes, others have acquired by their industry sufficient wealth to cope with the luxury of courts—the numbers of which however, we trust they never will be seduced into the imitation of. An American may be assured that his democratic principles, supposing that he cherishes them as every American, not a renegade, will, must cause him ever to be looked upon with jealousy by the advocates of monarchy and governments, and especially by those who in their hereditary titles and parchments sustain the mockery of thrones. It is therefore we see with pain in the following from a Paris paper, an aping after courtly style:

"At the princely entertainment given by Mr. Welles, the rich American banker, in the place St. George, on Thursday evening, the Count d'Appony is said to have alluded to the Strasburg affair as another obstacle to the marriage of the Duke of Orleans!"

The very remark of the editor appended to this verifies our own observations.

"It may be; we do not dispute the wisdom of Count d'Appony; but we think we can guarantee the spirit and liberality of his wealthy host, whose wife may possibly have induced the hallucination of the Austrian representative at this republican festival."

A pendant to the above though less objectionable, is the following:

"We are at all times happy to announce to our readers whatever is calculated to bring them in presence of each other under circumstances of cordiality and social feeling: it is with much pleasure therefore we have understood, that Col. Thorne's private Chapel in his hotel, rue de Varennes, No. 23, will in future be thrown open to the protestant inhabitants of Paris. This instance of proper feeling and well-intentioned example will, we are persuaded, be duly appreciated by our co-religionists, whether English or American."—N. Y. Star.

THE MAID OF SARAGOSSA.

The admirers of heroism, as well as art, will be glad to hear that Mr. Cousins is engaged on an engraving in mezzotint from Wilkie's picture of the Defence of Saragossa. The heroine Augustina is represented on the battery in front of the Convent of Santa Engratia, where her lover being slain, she found her way to the station he had occupied, stepped over his body, took her place at the gun, and declared she would avenge his death. The following beautiful poetical apostrophe to the exploits of Augustina will be found in the first canto of "Childs Harold," with the note appended:—

Her lover sinks—she sheds no ill-drawn tear;
Her chief is slain—she fills his fatal post;
Her hollows flee—she checks their base career;
The foe retires—she sends the rallying host:
Who can appease like her a lover's ghost?
Who can avenge so well a leader's fall?
What maid e'er drew when man's flesh'd hope is lost?
Who hang so fiercely on the flying Gaul?
Fetid by a Woman's hand, before a battered wall?

"Such were the exploits of the Maid of Saragossa, who, by her valor, elevated herself to the highest rank of heroines. When the author was at Seville she walked daily on the Prado, decorated with medals and orders, by command of the Junta." The exploits of Augustina, the famous heroine of both the Sieges of Saragossa, are recorded at length in one of the most splendid chapters of Southey's "History of the Peninsula War."—At the time when she first attracted notice, by mounting a battery where her lover had fallen, and working a gun in his room, she was in her 22d year, exceedingly pretty, and in a soft, feminine style of beauty.

A MYSTERIOUS PROCESSION.

The good people of Exmouth, in England, particularly the superstitious, have been thrown into much perplexity by the appearance of a magnificent funeral pageant which was seen by four respectable persons to pass through the streets between eleven and twelve o'clock. They had retired to bed, but had not fallen asleep, when a light gleamed into the windows; the trampling of horses was heard; they looked out and saw a funeral cavalcade proceeding with solemn pace. It consisted of several mutes on horseback, some with torches, and others with batons gilded, then a chariot and four, a hearse and six, three mourning coaches and four, followed by several gentlemen's carriages, the footmen behind with torches; the chariot, hearse, and coaches were decorated with splendid white plumes, and the hearse ornamented with heraldic escutcheons—the procession closed by a number of mutes, with torches and batons, similar to those who went in front of the procession. Two or three persons followed it a little way, but on going out of town lost sight of it. The neighboring villages were silent; no funeral had taken place there, and the gate keeper of the turnpike through which it must have entered Exmouth, had seen no such procession, nor had opened the gate to any person from eleven to five o'clock.

CERTIFICATES. Scituate, March 12, 1836.

I was afflicted six years with Dispepsia. No physicians nor medicines gave me relief—I suffered much, and was reduced very low—a friend of mine recommended to me the Jelly of Pomegranate. I bought two bottles, and used one and two thirds of another, and am entirely cured—it is now three months since, and have had no ill return.

HANNAH LITCHFIELD.

Cohasset, March 13, 1836. My child, a girl six years old, was afflicted with a humor ever since two years of age, and it began to be very troublesome, principally on the head and face. I bought the Jelly Pomegranate, and used it according to the directions, and in one week my child was cured—it is now six months since, and no humor has appeared again.

Boston, Nov. 12, 1836. Two months before I applied to Dr. Gorkak, I was taken with a Cough, attended with a dull head ache—the cough kept growing worse—a shortness of breath appeared, and I kept losing flesh very fast—in short it was alarming. I applied to Dr. Gorkak—he gave me two kinds of medicine—the Jelly of Pomegranate, and the Pulmonary Jelly—the medicine according to his directions, and received immediate relief—in the course of 14 days I was entirely cured.

NEELSON F. ROBY.

Boston, Nov. 12, 1836. I was subject to canker in the stomach, throat and mouth about a year since—it troubled me very much—I was recommended to make use of the Jelly of Pomegranate and Pills, prepared by Dr. Gorkak. I used the medicine with astonishing success—in five or six days I was entirely cured, and ever since have been free of canker. I really think there is no medicine for canker equal to the Jelly Pomegranate.

ELIZABETH L. MERRITT.

Roxbury, July 4, 1836. Dr. Gorkak's Jelly I cannot help acknowledging my gratitude to you for the cure I received, in the use of your Jelly Pomegranate and Pills. My disease was a universal weakness—I was so low that I was unable to walk out of the house, and continued to grow weaker every day. I used your Jelly Pomegranate and Pills with such success, that in one week I was entirely cured.

JOHN BURNS.

Dorchester, Nov. 6, 1836. I have for several years been afflicted with a humor, which was very troublesome—about 8 months ago I was advised to call on Dr. Gorkak—he recommended to me the Jelly of Pomegranate and Pills, and I used them, which I used according to his directions, and in a short time I was entirely cured, which I can fully testify.

With their Lower Canadian brethren in their desire for a responsible government; and any neglect or indignity—any denial of justice, or infliction of injustice on the one province, will be resented by both. There is undoubtedly a party in the Canada, who would prefer under any circumstances, an independent republican government; but generally speaking, we believe, judging from a variety of circumstances, the Canadians are attached to the British government, and would not separate from England unless forced to do so by misgoverment.

Wednesday Morning, April 5, 1837.

C. G. Greene, Esq.—Dear Sir—I observed in your paper of this day an advertisement, by a highly respectable member of our profession, DR GEORGE BARTLETT, alluding to the frequent errors into which people are led, owing to the unfortunate identity of our patronymics. With reference to that gentleman, you may remember that the like mistake has heretofore occurred, at a time when political motives would naturally prevent either of us from wishing to be confounded with each other; (I allude to the recent election in Ward 5), and at present, I am equally solicitous, with himself, to prevent the recurrence of a similar error. And at that period I remarked, in the paper of which I am co-editor, that, as I now repeat, I have no wish to be considered guilty of the political sin of whiggism, or to add the letters M. M. S. to a name sufficiently, if not agreeably, familiar to the learned body, whose fellowship they denote.

I cannot, therefore, expect otherwise than that Dr George Bartlett should be anxious to escape identification, with an excommunicate from that society—from the Boston Medical Association, &c.—and one who, in addition to the load of vengeance poured upon him by these institutions, labors under the stigma of Jacksonism and Catholicism.

But I will only refer to another instance of a similar error which one of your correspondents (who signs himself "Right of Justice") committed last week, when he imagined that my letters upon Graham were the production of a venerable and estimable physician in this vicinity, whose christian and sir-name are common to us both. I presume that, "at his advanced age," he would be likely to derive little information or gratification from the perusal of the licentious work to which your correspondent alluded; and at the same time, although the latter seems to be acquainted with its familiar title, I conceive that many things may be examined by a married physician connected with the press, which would hardly be deemed fit for miscellaneous distribution.

At all events, the book to which your correspondent refers, excites the mind only in a natural manner; whether Mr Graham's lecture to young men is confined to this kind of excitability of the passions, may be left for the curious in such matters to judge.

Very truly and respectfully yours,
JOHN STEPHEN BARTLETT, M. D.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Wednesday, April 5.—In the Senate, the bill to increase the capital of the Lowell Railroad was taken up in the Senate, the question being in concurring with the House in the adoption of the following amendments, "providing that the corporation shall be subject to the general laws of the Commonwealth in the same manner provided for other Railroad corporations which have been created since March 1831," and this amendment was rejected by a vote of 15 to 14.

The bill to admit the testimony and establish the competency of witnesses, came up in the orders of the day, the question being on the indefinite postponement, and the question was decided in the affirmative—yeas 22, nays 3. In the House, on motion of Mr Flint of Reading, it was ordered that the committee on the Judiciary be instructed to consider the expediency of amending the 43d chap of the Revised Statutes, that the proprietors of real estate held in common may be authorized to make sale of the same.

Mr Brown of Boston, moved a reconsideration of the vote whereby the House yesterday refused a third reading to a bill to increase the capital stock of the Commonwealth Bank. After considerable discussion, Mr Curtis of Roxbury moved the previous question, and the main question was taken, and the House refused to reconsider the vote—217 to 170.

In the orders of the day, the bills to increase the capital stock of the D. D. Ham, Fulton, Hancock, and the Railroad Banks, were severally read a second time, and the House refused to give them a third reading—165 to 139.

Fast-days.—The word fast seems to have been derived from the Latin Fasti—Fasti dies being the fast days or festal days of the Romans. Hence, according to this derivation, if it be the correct one, our Thanksgiving ought more properly to be called Fast-days, than the days which usually bear this title. The practice of fasting is very ancient. The Jews had their fast-days from the beginning of their nation. In the time of Zacharias, there were four regular fasts—in the months of June, July, September, and December. They have various other occasional fasts. Their abstinence lasted twenty seven or twenty-eight hours, beginning before sunset, and not ending until sometime after sunset. Then they completed their abstinence, by eating nothing on that night but a little bread seasoned with salt and steeped in water. Our New England fasts seem to be somewhat less rigid—generally fast only between the hours of breakfast and dinner, and often close the day with a sumptuous entertainment. The ancient Grecians also had their fasts. The Athenians had the Eleusinian and Thesmophorian fasts, the observance of which was accompanied with strict fasting, particularly among the women, who spent one whole day sitting upon the ground, in a mournful dress, without taking any nourishment. All the Pagan Deities required this duty of those who desired to be initiated into their mysteries, of the priests who gave the oracles, and of those who came to consult them. Several of the Roman Emperors had their stated fast-days; and Julian the Apostate was so exact in this observance, as even to out-do the priests themselves. The Chinese have at all times, had regular fasts, with forms of prayers, for preserving them from barrenness, inundation, earthquakes and such like misfortunes. The Mahometans likewise, observe fasts, and their devotes are remarkable for their rigid observance of them. The Turks, during their fasts, will not so much as take the smell of any perfumery, by the nose. If they bathe it is forbidden to put the head under water for fear of swallowing some of it. It was not unusual among the ancients to fast on account of dreams. The first Christians used to join abstinence with their prayers, especially when they were engaged in affairs of extraordinary importance. Mosheim says, it is not improbable, that in the time of the Apostles or soon after, the fourth and sixth days of the week, were observed as fasts. Towards the close of the third century, fasting was held in great esteem, from a belief that it served as a security against witchcraft, the power of demons, and so forth. The strict canonical fast allows of only one meal in twenty-four hours. The ancient fast was to sup without dining—only to take one meal and that not till afternoon. The practice of the Latin church was to fast thirty-six days in the year. The ancient Catholics required no fasts besides that preceding Easter—since called Lent; the terms of which were to forbear eating till the evening. In early times the terms of fasting were extremely rigid, requiring total abstinence from food for many hours. The terms became gradually less and less rigid, till at length, among certain sects, a mere abstinence from flesh and wine was considered sufficient—eating only fruits, bread, and vegetables, after the manner of the Graham system. In our own day, amongst our own people, fasting consist chiefly in a proclamation issued by the Governor and Council, which is generally read on the preceding Sunday, in all the Protestant pulpits throughout the State.

Poor Jubal Harrington.—Post Master at Worcester.—Lobby Member of the Legislature—Missionary General to Washington—Editor of the Worcester County Republican, and would-be Weigher and Gauger in the Boston Custom House, is in a terrible funk;—his fouled mouthed abuse of Mr Henshaw, however, was unprovoked, for Mr H. has not written a single word in reference to him, or the subject of the Collectorship, or the controversy arising out of it, to our knowledge, since the Legislature has been in session. But this is no reason why the degraded wretch, who, while he held one office was selling his pretended claims to another, should hesitate to vomit forth the poisonous venom, which is corroding his narrow soul, upon the head of a man who thinks and cares no more about him, than he does about the most insignificant puppy that yelps in the street. Tune your lyre (liar) again, Jubal.

The Abolition Resolutions.—We learn that there is much excitement throughout the State about the passage of the Abolition Resolutions in the Senate. The reflecting and discreet portion of the community look upon the conduct of the Senate with feelings of deep regret, if not indignation. We are confident that the wisdom of the House will ally the feverishness in the public mind produced by the Senate's action, by rejecting at once, or indefinitely postponing, the fire-brand Resolutions. We hope that the democratic members, at least, will be consistent, and unitedly oppose their passage—they owe it to their country—to themselves, and to their party.

"Another inquiry, still more puzzling is, why new bank stock is wanted at par, when the best bank stock cannot be sold except under par, and some 10 or 14 per cent. discount."—Advocate.

We know of no Journal so reckless in its statements as the Advocate, and so regardless of the most evident facts. It said on Wednesday last—"the best bank stock cannot be sold except under par." Its own columns, on Monday, contained the report of sales of Boston Bank shares at 1-4 a 8 1-2 advance—City Bank, at 1 1-8 a 2 1-8—Eagle Bank, at 2 1-4 a 4 1-4—Merchants' Bank, at 4 3-4 a 6—N. E. Bank, at 3 3-4—Suffolk Bank, at 25!

Mrs Barrett made quite a successful appearance last evening in Julia, (says the New York Star of Monday,) in the Hunchback, although it is a part not exactly in her line; in light and genteel Comedy she probably stands unrivalled; nevertheless, in a perfect knowledge of the part and some very fine points, it was as well sustained as could be desired.

To-morrow Evening Miss M'Brice will take her annual benefit at the Tremont. As she is a handsome young girl, a meritorious member of the corps, and always gets up excellent bills of entertainment, the house will probably be well filled.

The Anti Slavery resolutions received their second reading in the Senate yesterday, without eliciting a remark. The two last will meet with a strong opposition in the House, but the debate will probably not take place until next week.

Ayling's house at the National the other night, was one of the best of the season. His second appearance as Master Walter answered the expectations of his friends, who gave him an enthusiastic reception.

We are pained to see the death of Mrs Wilson, (formerly Miss Johnson) of the Park Theatre, announced, after a short illness by scarlet fever. She had her full share of afflictions.

Juvenal.—We have received from the Harpers a copy of "Juvenal," translated by Charles Badham, and "Persius," translated by Sir William Drummond, the whole forming a volume of the Family Classical Library.

Mr Nichols, the Ventriloquist, will make some of the queerest noises at Amory Hall, to-night and to-morrow night, that mortal man ever heard. His audience last evening were highly gratified.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION! ALL'S WELL.

To the Editor of the Boston Post.
Hartford 4th April, 1837.—Dear Sir—The whigs have made a very great effort this year, believing that their candidate for Governor was a man of very great popularity. With much persuasion, he finally consented to make the sacrifice required of him, and take the office of Governor. But the electors, differing from the Honorable gentleman, and his friends, have obstinately refused to vote for him, and signified their wishes that the gentleman should attend to his own affairs, not theirs. Your brother of the Atlas, who has taken great interest in bringing out Mr Ellsworth, will feel very comfortable when he gets the returns.

There is no doubt that Mr Ellsworth has run as well as any man whom the whigs could select. Not that he is a man of transcendently great talents, for he is far from it; but he is a son of the late Chief Justice Ellsworth—has never made himself obnoxious by taking a very active part in political affairs—not so much however from a want of disposition as of ability. He is moreover allied to some of the most "distinguished families" in the State, and has been cracked up as one of the most wonderful men in New England, famous, as you know, for a race of federal giants.

But Mr Ellsworth is "done for"—and can't be governor till next year.

In this Congressional district, No. 1, composed of the county of Hartford, we have re-elected Toucey by about 100 majority. This was formerly a strong federal county, and they now calculated on certain success. But we have not only elected Toucey—we have carried a majority of the representatives, 18 to 13, and there are some cases of non-election where we shall succeed.

From District No 2, composed of New Haven and Middletown, Ingham is re-elected by a large majority.

From the returns already in from No 4, composed of Fairfield, there is no doubt that Whiteley is re-elected.

The returns from No 5, Litchfield, although but few, are favorable to our candidate, Phelps—as are those from No 6, Windham and Tolland, to our candidate, Holt.

From No 3, New London, we as yet hear nothing.

The democrats have done well. The contest has been a severe one, and the federalists have made greater exertions than I ever knew them except in the panic year, 1834. They were perfectly confident of their candidate for Governor, and of their Congressional candidate in this district, and were very much in hopes of carrying the whole State.

A factitious and unprincipled combination of professed democrats in this place, gave them great countenance and encouragement—and assisted the whigs to some votes. Through the whole campaign their press has directed its warfare against the democrats, though professing to aid them, and has fired not a gun at the whigs.

In very great haste yours,

From the New York Evening Post of Tuesday.—We have a letter from New Haven, dated 11 o'clock last night. The number of votes polled in that town at the election yesterday, was 1996, a larger number than was ever given before, and the whig majority was reduced to about half what it was last autumn.

The intelligence from the neighboring towns is also favorable. The whigs made great use of the distress, the banks aiding the whig ticket with their influence, "the principal merchants and manufacturers, nearly all the professional men, and Yale College with its Theological, Medical and Law Schools," says a correspondent, went for the whig ticket, yet there were 951 democratic votes polled. The letter proceeds to say:

"In New Haven county we have elected, of the 28 Representatives chosen in the towns, 17 or 19—of the 3 Senators, 2 are democrats. Ingham, (democrat) for member of Congress, will have about 500 majority, and our other candidates will average about 300. I send a slip of paper with the returns as reported—will vary some, but not materially.

Wallingford, democratic majority, 98; Meriden, do 95; Hamden, do 147; Bethany, do 102; North Haven, do 58; Killingworth, do 40; Guilford, do 10; North Branford, do 23; Cheshire, do 40; all of which have elected democratic representatives. Stratford, do 15, 1 democratic representative; Bridgeport, do 25, 1 do; Trumbull, do 4, 1 do; Fairfield, do 22, 2 do.

In haste, yours, &c."

Extract of a letter dated

MIDDLETOWN, April 3d, 1837.

Gentlemen—Our election is now about closing—our majority Democratic is 143; Durham Democratic majority, 47; Chatham Democratic majority, 199. Our Congress ticket will be, in this town, all of 150 majority.

Yours, in haste.

N. B. The State no doubt, is safe for Democracy.

A Crash.—The Buffalo Journal of Tuesday last says, about 2 o'clock this afternoon the entire stone cornice of the five story block of buildings on Maine street, recently erected by Starkweather and Brown, fell with a tremendous crash, totally destroying the sidewalk and vault in front. A report immediately spread that some persons were buried in the ruins, and a large number of men are engaged in removing the rubbish, stones, &c.—3, P. M., the body of a little girl so entirely mutilated that the sex is only known by the clothes has just been taken out, and the workmen are still anxiously searching for other bodies.

NEW ORLEANS, March 24. We have had no arrivals from Vera Cruz nor Matamoros since the 8th of February; and the general supposition is, that our vessels are detained by the Mexican authorities. We are credibly informed that there are now fifteen American vessels in the port of Matamoros.—courier.

The Rotunda Panels.—Vanderlyn—Landing of Columbus.—Mr Vanderlyn has, we learn, given to the Committee of Congress, a sketch of the Painting with which he proposes to adorn the panel assigned to him in the Rotunda of the Capitol at Washington. It has, we hear, met their decided approbation, and the subject is the Landing of Columbus, which ought to be first in the memory and gratitude of every American, as an event to them of special application, and to the world at large, the most momentous, as we learn believe and hope it will prove that ever occurred in the history of the world, and for the cause of liberty and humanity.—N. Y. Star.

Excellent.—The sum of $1200, a surplus left in the hands of the managers of the Inauguration Ball in the city of Washington, was voted by them unanimously to the Orphan Asylum of that city.—Phil. Ledger.

Gov. Peindexter is at Louisville in excellent health, says the Post office of the 23d.

A Post office has been established in East Marshfield and John Tilden, Esq., has been appointed Postmaster.
